From the collection of retired aerospace engineer Chuck Elsbree, "By preserving the implements and describing their functional and mechanical purposes, I hope that readers will better understand and appreciate the engineering talent required to create and manufacture antique farm equipment."

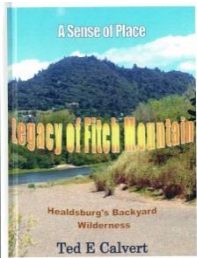

For the first time in book form, here is a decade's worth of fascinating historical facts and the intriguing drama of Windsor's incredible growth, urban evolution, and tenacious efforts toward cityhood. "Gabe Fraire's book is excellent reading. He tells Windsor's story objectively and accurately, and the detailed chronological order of events is easy to follow and understand." - Nick Esposti, Fourth District Supervisor Sonoma County, California.

"Ted Calvert has assembled a book that celebrates what is most worth of our respect, reflection, and protection: the natural beauty of our own backyard, and the place we call home. It should be read not only by residents of Sonoma County but by anyone who admires the ever changing Northern California hills." - Dan Imhoff, author of Farming and the Wild, president and cofounder of Watershed Media Publishing House. $15.00

"Images of America WINDSOR" is a must read for every Windsor resident and Sonoma County history buff. Author Barbara F. Ray is the founder of the Windsor Museum & Historical Society and a superb and meticulous historian. With over 400 photos organized into 10 chapters the history of Windsor will unfold. I refer to it almost daily - Stephen Lehmann, president Windsor Museum and Historical Society

This beautiful coverlet was commissioned by the Windsor Museum & Historical Society and created by We Love Country. It is 100% cotton, two and a half-layer, jacquard woven in the U.S.A. preshrunk, colorfast and machine-washable.
